AT THE
Bennett House,
SALEM, OREGON.
L. JAY S. TURNEY,
HAVING LEASED THE ABOVE NAMED HOTEL, is prepared to accommodate the traveling public, and our REGULAR BOARDERS, in as good style as any House on the Coast. He has determined to make the "Bennett" as good as the best and better than any public house in Salem. He will soon complete some important improvements, which will add greatly to its appearance and comfort, and intends to merit and hopes to receive his share of patronage.
He has secured the services of "Charley" (known to be the best cook in Salem, and one of the best in the whole country) and other competent persons to manage the culinary department, and is resolved to set as good a table as can be found anywhere—not in clap-trap, soup and show, flummery and fine furniture, but in an abundant supply of the very best the market affords.
His Bar-room will be kept warmed and lighted, and well supplied with newspapers, periodicals and other suitable matter, and kept in a manner which will make it an agreeable resort.
In short, he intends making an effort to please all who stop at the BENNETT HOUSE. And he most respectfully requests his friends everywhere to give the old and well known stand, at least one more trial before consulting they can do as well elsewhere, and promises if they are not well treated, and properly cared for, and at reasonable figures, it will not be the fault of the public's most obedient and most humble servant,

Woman's Freaks.

A YOUNG LADY "THROWS OFF" ON HER AFFIANCED AND MARRIES A DISCARDED LOVER.

Last Friday a very respectable gentleman from Chillicothe, accompanied by his wife and niece, the latter a very prepossessing young lady, arrived in the city and got accommodations at the Henrie House. Attending the young lady was her affianced, a worthy young man of Chillicothe, to whom she had been engaged for three years past, expecting soon to be married.

Their three years of courtship had only to appeared to strengthen the mutual admiration and love which seized them both upon the occasion of their first meeting. Everything seemed to point toward a speedy and happy union—in fact, we believe the journey to the city was partially for the purpose of obtaining certain necessary articles to complete a bride's outfit. The young man was of steady, industrious habits, in a good business, and uncle and aunt looked forward to his marriage with their niece with pleasant anticipations regarding their future.

In the afternoon this pleasant and quite harmonious little family party had a caller at the Henrie House, in the person of another young man, an old acquaintance of the young lady's, and a former resident of Chillicothe, but now a telegraph operator at a town not far away from there. This young man, as we are informed, was under an engagement of marriage with the young lady some ten years ago, but the engagement had been broken off for some reason to us unknown. He was on perfectly friendly terms, however, with all parties. He said he was about to be married, and asked the uncle and aunt if they would permit their niece to accompany him to a milliner's on Fourth street for the purpose of selecting a bonnet for his intended, and the request was readily granted. They had not been gone very long when she returned, and afterwards sat down to tea with her friends as though nothing had happened; but there had though.

After tea the telegraphic operator came to the office of the Henrie House and demanded his wife's baggage with a considerable display of importance. Explanations ensued, and it transpired that while the young lady was out to select a bonnet for the telegraph operator's intended, they concluded that the bonnet would fit her as well as anybody, and so they got married. When the story was told them and the marriage certificate shown, there was an uncle and an aunt quite petrified with astonishment. There was a young man from Chillicothe, however, who was not so much petrified, for when he came back and learned what had transpired, he took his pistol and expressed a strong desire to shoot some one. He would probably have reduced the corps of telegraph operators by about one if he could have found the instrument—five night call it the telegraph instrument—of his ruin. But he had gone, together with the perfidious woman to whom he had hoped to be united.

We learn that the pair left for Cleveland that evening on a wedding tour. The deeply mortified uncle and aunt, together with the outraged young man, returned to Chillicothe the following morning. The latter, when he recovers from his rage and mortification, will probably congratulate himself on the narrow escape he has made from being united to a woman of so fickle a disposition (to put it mildly) as this one has displayed.—Cincinnati Times, Nov., 13th.

THE HARRIET LANE.—This vessel has probably arrived at New York, as a few weeks ago she was at Havana. An Eastern paper says:

Her history is curious and interesting. After being captured by the Confederates at Galveston, she was sold to Mr. House, of Boston, who loaded her with cotton, and she succeeded in reaching that port, where she has remained ever since. Mr. House transferred the vessel to a Mr. Hurley, at present a clerk in his employ, who in turn executed an unconditional and irrevocable power to Captain Scott, who claims the vessel, he having executed a bond for $100,000. Mr. House, who has been pardoned by the President, turns over all claims he may have on the Harriet Lane to the United States, and United States naval officers are expected to arrive at Havana to take charge of her. Unless Captain Scott institutes suit on behalf of himself and the parties for whom he is acting, among whom General J. B. Magruder presents a little claim of over $6,000, there will be no further delay in the matter. The amount realized from the sales of cotton brought by the Harriet Lane, together with the sum of $25,000 received from the English insurance companies, being the amount paid for damages to the ship by fire while lying in the harbor of Havana, was invested jointly by the Confederate agents and Mr. House in the purchase of the steamer Pelican, which will be placed in the hands of Messrs. Morales & Co., of Havana, and by them consigned to a New York firm, who will sell the steamer, the proceeds to be divided by the United States and Mr. House. Those are the remnants of the late Confederacy in Cuba, only half a dozen of Confederates remaining in Havana engaged in commercial or mechanical pursuits.

MISERABLE END OF A MISERLY BARONESS.—The Paris papers report that the commissary of police of the quarter of the Place Vendome, accompanied by a doctor, recently visited the apartment of a baroness, in order to certify at the request of the inmates of the house, the death of the lady, who was seventy-five years of age. The appearance of the apartment indicated extraordinary neglect. There was scarcely any furniture; the dust of years obscured the window panes, and the paper on the wall was spotted and rotten. The place appeared to have been uninhabited from time immemorial, and yet the baroness had lived there for twenty-five years, paying an annual rent of 1,500f. In the bedroom, stretched upon a truckle bed, and partly covered with filthy rags, lay the body of the baroness. An examination showed that death arose from weakness caused by want of food. It further appeared that she had starved herself willfully; and, indeed, in point of avarice, the baroness would have borne away the palm from Harpagon or Gobseck. Notwithstanding her considerable fortune, estimated at $50,000 a year, she always went clothed like a beggar, and often solicited charity in the street. She lived on crusts of bread, the refuse of cabbages and other vegetables, and such like garbage that she picked up from dirt heaps. A few days before her death she fell down from weakness, while passing the door of the concierge, from want of food; but she refused to take some refreshment offered her, no doubt fearing that she would have to pay for it. She succeeded in gaining her apartment, and was not afterwards seen alive.

A TALE WITH A MORAL.—Wendell Phillips, in a late speech at Cooper's Institute, New York, related the following, which is the best illustration of the President's conduct with regard to the elections that we have seen:

"I do not fear the President. Fear him? No. I never read one of his speeches, I never heard of one of his acts that I was not reminded of a story I have read of the manner the Russian peasants on the outermost provinces of Russia have of killing the bear. These peasants are too poor to buy muskets, and the bear's hide is impervious to any arrows they can make, so the hunter's practice upon the bear's credulity. The bear loves honey and will do anything to obtain it. So they go to an empty bee's nest and fastened a peg above a hole where the bees have built, and from this peg they hang a cannon ball or a large stone, and when the bear comes to push in his head for the honey he moves the stone and it comes back upon him with force. Angry at the blow, he gives it another toss, and it returns on him with stronger force. He raises himself again, and in his rage he pushes the moving pendulum with greater strength, but back it comes with additional momentum, when he swings around the whole circle to use a late phrase. [Laughter.] Well, now, Vermont was a good blow, but Maine was better. Ohio was

Easy and Cheap Transportation

Agricultural products depend for their value to their producer upon the nearness of markets and the facility of transportation The value of farming lands is, of course, determined by the same incidents These facts are illustrated by the increase of the value of farm products and the increase of the cash value of farms in the United States during the period between the years 1850 and 1860 During that time the value of farm products and of farms was more than doubled In those ten years the great grain growing States of the North and West were provided with a railroad system whose ramifications brought every part of the country into communication with a market These railroads became the channels, the arteries through which the life blood of the country began to flow, stimulating its energies, increasing its activities and building up its varied industries The producer finding a market, immediately redoubled his exertions, sending from his farm an amount of products vastly increased over over the production of former years. Lands rapidly appreciated in value, and in localities far removed from navigable water courses where, only a few years ago, the price of land was hardly more than nominal, there are now farms of almost inestimable value, the country has assumed the thrifty and prosperous appearance of the older settled portions of America, and changes which it required in other times two centuries to effect, have been brought about under our own observation within a single decade. We have realized in our own experience what an eminent historical writer has said "Of all inventions, the alphabet and printing press alone excepted, those inventions which abridge distance have done most for the civilization of our species Every improvement of the means of locomotion benefits mankind morally and intellectually as well as materially, and not only facilitates the interchange of the various productions of nature and art, but tends to remove national and provincial antipathies, and to bind together all the branches of the great human family" Since 1850 the increase of wealth in the United States has been much more than proportionate with the increase of population, and this fact is to be attributed mainly to the improved facilities for locomotion and transportation

So then, what the inhabitants of this State need more than all things else, is the means of easy transportation from one place to another; from the interior to the ocean or to points on waters al ways navigable, from the place of production to the place where products may find a market. Half the land of Oregon might well be given for the construction of such a highway, because when completed, it would confer on the remaining half a value fourfold greater than the whole now possesses, or can ever possess without such a work. Take a subject of remark as this has become, it is of greater real interest to the State than any other enterprise that has yet been projected It will do more for Oregon than all other enterprises combined. We have before us astonishing proofs of what has been effected in other States by the same instrumentality What it has done there it will do here. Quick and cheap transportation would accomplish the same marvelous results here that have, by similar means, been produced elsewhere We may talk long of these things before we achieve them, but when the day of easy, cheap and rapid transportation for the products of labor to our markets begins, we shall find that there is no other agency of such power for the production of wealth, or for the building up of all the material interests of the State

A Specimen of Southern Loyalty

There is a strenuous and wicked effort making throughout the North to produce the impression and belief that the South is an unfortunate people who though they may have erred in judgment intended no wrong and that their fault, whatever it may have been, is atoned for by their misfortunes We say this is a wicked effort, because the South as a people did not merely commit a blunder that can obtain a ready and sufficient excuse, but they are guilty of a great crime, and are held guilty before the great tribunal of the loyal people of the nation Nor will the people who crushed the rebellion ever yield this point, for should they do so they would condemn themselves. The election of Lincoln was no excuse for rebellion.

When Northern men justify the rebellion, what are we to expect from the South? Henry A. Wise of Virginia has lately, in a public speech, eulogized as martyrs those who fell in their criminal attempt against the life of their country. It will be seen from the extract we give that its leading idea is not different from that set forth on the same subject by the Copperhead press of the North

"A mourning people meet in the midst of graves, the dust of which is more sacred than that of kindred, to do homage to the virtuous, and commemorate the deeds of heroes Reason, in their sacred soil now generating in these graves, assures us that the moral power of the universe will forever overcome all evil and negligent forces. The buried are now immortal, while we survive to suffer. Their names and deeds need no monument, no hostile hand can strike them now, Eternity has sealed their testimony to the truth, and time's testimony will not permit human history to be perverted to their shame Their death only proved that they were preferred of heaven when they fell We now need their examples more than during the war, and have need to heed them more If we need Gideons to hear us through the flaming of the red-hot war, we need more than a Moses now to bear us up in dungeons of defeat, and lead us out by ways that prove us worthy of great trials with which our honor is intrusted. The Captain of our salvation was conquered, he died that the cause might live; and from that day to this the blood of the martyr has been the seed of the Church So with the seeds of truth on earth The truths for which we fought yet live While waiting for their resurrection or their coming, in this hour of darkness and of doubt, to all who, recreant, would abandon faith, the Stonewall example strongly and firmly speaks"

Have rebels who talk in this way any reason to complain of their exclusion from participation in the Government which they declare they will yet overthrow? And are not they guilty of a great wrong who encourage these unrepentant rebels in their course, and try to persuade this country that they have done nothing amiss, nothing which merits punishment?

Somebody has sent us a copy of the "Life and Speeches of Andrew Johnson" On an examination of the book we fail to find those speeches which he delivered while swinging round the circle, and on which his fame chiefly rests Therefore we shall not further notice the book. If anybody wants to prepare an edition of Johnson's speeches that will sell, he must not omit to insert his most celebrated oratorical performances It is shameful to slight him by omitting them, and for our part we shall give no countenance to so unjust a proceeding

The Confederate Democrat is out in another long article against the Peoples' Transportation Company,—and all because said Company would not carry the editor of that paper and his household goods from Portland to Albany at his own price. Thus, assuredly, is an outrage And it is the more inexcusable because it happens that the said editor is the only person who has lately found fault with this Company But let the Confederate man continue his tilt against his windmill

During the war which began with the fall of Sumter and ended with the collapse of the Confederacy, the State of Illinois furnished 258 217 soldiers and 1,171 sailors Of these, 72,291 were killed, wounded or died of disease in the service.

A Gloomy Situation

In some of Hawthorne's notes recently published, are passages pregnant with the choicest bits of sentiment and pleasantry that have fallen from the pen of any late English writer We lately came upon a short dissertation of his, on "Lonely Dinners," which we give here, both because of its rare humor, and because it has an allusion to Oregon which every reader will appreciate

At dinner behold an immense joint of roast veal! I would willingly have had some assistance in the discussion of this great calf I am ashamed to eat alone, it becomes the mere gratification of animal appetite—the tribute which we are compelled to pay to our grosser nature, whereas in the company of another it is refined and moralized and spiritualized, and over our earthly victuals, (or rather vittles, for the former is a very foolish mode of spelling), over our earthly vittles is diffused a sauce of lofty and gentle thoughts, and tough meat is mollified with tender feelings But oh! these solitary meals are the dismalest part of my present experience When the company rose from the table, they all, in my single person, ascended to the study, and employed themselves in reading an article on Oregon in the Democratic Review Then they plodded onward in the rugged and bewildering depths of Tacitus until five o'clock, when with one accord, they went out to split wood

We confess that under the circumstances the writer had reason to regard his situation as dismal beyond description The solitary dinner was bad enough, but when it came to reading an article in the Democratic Review just after that lonely meal, the gloom must have been deepened into positive horror This Democratic Review was, we suppose, the same paper of that name which lately expired at the Capital of our State. Knowing the facts, we cannot wonder that the author from whom we have quoted was plunged into so gloomy a state of mind by his surroundings It is shocking, it is frightful to think of

SCENE AT THE DEATH BED OF MR LINCOLN —At Carlisle, Pa, recently, the Presbyterian Synods of the old and new schools being in session at the same place, the two bodies met in communion with great harmony. Rev Dr. Gurley, pastor of the church in Washington which President Lincoln usually attended, in a speech at the table, gave the following narrative, which has never before been made public

When summoned on that sad night to the death bed of President Lincoln, I entered the room fifteen or twenty minutes before his departure All present were gathered anxiously around him, waiting to catch his last breath The physician, with one hand upon the pulse of the dying man, and the other hand laid upon his heart, was intently watching for the moment when life should cease

He lingered longer than we had expected At length the physician said "He is gone, he is dead"

Then I solemnly believe that for four or five minutes there was not the slightest noise or movement in that awful presence. We all stood transfixed in our positions, speechless, breathless, around the dead body of that great and good man

At length, the Secretary of War, who was standing at my left, broke the silence, and said "Doctor, will you say anything?" I replied, "I will speak to God." Said he, "Do it just now"

And there, by the side of our fallen chief, God put it into my heart to utter this petition that from that hour we and the whole nation might become more than ever united in our devotion to the cause of our beloved, imperilled country

When I ceased, there arose from the lips of the entire company a fervent and spontaneous "Amen"

And has not the whole heart of the loyal nation responded "Amen"?

Was not that prayer, there offered, responded to in a most remarkable manner? When in our history have the people of this land been found more closely bound together in purpose and heart than when the telegraphic wires bore all over the country the sad tidings that President Lincoln was dead?

On the 18th inst, says the Montana Post of the 24th ult, we had the pleasure of gazing upon a brick of pure silver weighing eighty five pounds, and valued at $1 200 This is the result of the first week's run of the Alder Gulch mines, and is a fair sample of the average yield of the district two small bars of the same metal Silver spoons, plate, etc, will be abundant in Montana if present indications form the basis of our judgment The bricks from the Legal Tender lead were sent to Helena on the 19th inst, and will be placed in the First National Bank

PICTURE GALLERY—W R JONES has long taken the gallery corner of Front and Morrison streets Portland, would announce to the public that he is making PHOTOGRAPHS from Locket to Life size, AMBROTYPES, MELANOTYPES, SUN PEARLS, and CARTE DE VISITE, plain or enameled, in the best style of the art If you want card pictures with the most beautiful enamel at lower prices than can be had in the city or State go to JONES' GALLERY, corner of Front and Morrison dec7 d3m2p

PICTURE NOTICE —ELLSWORTH & CARDWELL, 89 Front Street, (Postoffice block) would notify those wanting pictures that unless they call at their PHOTOGRAPH GALLERY before the first of January, it is not likely they will again have the opportunity for FIRST-CLASS work in this city A word to the wise is sufficient SUN PEARLS ALBUM CARDS and other styles executed in the same superior manner as heretofore.

CONSUL GENERAL —It may be of interest to some to know that Prussia contemplates sending a Consul General to New York but of far greater importance to the citizens of Oregon is the fact that KOHN & FISHEL continue to sell fine custom made clothing at prices that defy competition a visit to their establishment No 111 Front street will satisfy all of the truth of our assertion

NEW NEWS AND OLD NEWS.—Local reporters, though expected to find out everything that happens and every body's private business besides, were never gifted with the powers of omnipresence. If, then, they do retail the gossip-items that smell of antiquity, their numerous circles of admiring friends" ought to stand their proper share of the blame. If their friends, on whom they depend for items in the rough, fail to put the reporter upon the trail of freshly started game, they, and "I," become the responsible parties for the escape. Reporters can't publish items till the items are captured and reduced to possession and reporters can't be everywhere. They must, until mundane things are slightly remodeled, depend upon A, B, etc—things are slightly remodeled, depend upon A, B, etc—for the finest of the alphabet, down to Izzard—for the greater number of their items. One of our acquaintances was the other day wondering why we had never mentioned a remarkable circumstance which he mentioned—a remarkable circumstance which he mentioned—a fact which he knew of at the time—nearly two months ago. Well, now, if our acquaintance had mentioned it to the reporter then it would have appeared the very next morning, in italics and caps enough to have satisfied the most exacting sensation-reader. But when an item has been allowed neglected till all grown over with the mosses of age, we don't want it. If we can't mention the accidental killing of a married man, till the widow has again become a wife and liable to have the item read to her from the morning paper by her second husband, we prefer to remain silent on that particular subject. Reporters are pleased at all times to chronicle at the earliest possible moment the haps or mishaps, the sudden and strange deaths, marriages or other misfortunes of their friends, and they want the items handed in so that they can be read by the same generation on that day in which the parties all belonged. This is a hint to every body.

"SPINSTER'S DAYS."—A young lady in the country—we would fain believe her a very young lady, though it is more probable she is one of those gushing creatures whose age has been for many years, uncertain—sends us some plaintive verses about the "Melancholy Days" which, she discovers, have come. The verses are about as melancholy as the "days" to which they are addressed and have added a new gloom to the already "dark as Erebus" atmosphere from which no well-fed sun gathered up wonted ghastliness. Our young lady has blasted for she has made us wretched; she wants her melancholies relieved, we wouldn't do it for the world, there may be happy and sunny hearts among our readers, and we would spare them. They will be fortunate if they escape Joyless till the sun shines again, without being afflicted with the creaking and distempered jingleings of early rising. It is sad enough to look upon the reality of an Oregon winter, without having it dark and mouldy dance introduced us in our parlors, libraries, and sanctums. Now, sweet young ladies, good friends everywhere, don't send us any more winter poetry. If the blues pounce upon you, shake it off, get a sewing machine or, if you are masculine gender, get a hand organ and mangle your sorrows in that way. Ten to one, a [illegible] will work off the dyspepsia and your poetic [illegible] at the same time. Amen.

IN DIFFERENT QUARTERS OF LAW.—There is a suit pending in the Circuit Court, which involves the law as to the liabilities of telegraph companies for errors committed in [illegible] messages. It is a suit brought by Messrs. Smith & Davis of this city, against the California Telegraph Company, founded upon an alleged mistake in a telegraphic order sent East some months since, by which a much larger amount was shipped than contained in the message sent, and on account of such mistake the plaintiffs allege that they suffered loss [illegible] to the complaint was argued yesterday and Chief Justice Shattuck holding that telegraphic companies are liable as common carriers. As we understand the matter, this is the law to be that if the Company receives a message to be transmitted to New York, and receives pay therefor, though other lines [illegible] their own be used in the transmission, they have engaged to deliver it promptly and correctly at New York, and are liable for all mistakes or delays not caused by the "act of God or the public enemy,"—such acts as human foresight and precaution could not anticipate or prevent.

THE PARTY OUT, AS SUPPOSED.—During the trial of a [illegible] case was up before the Recorder yesterday, officer [illegible] testified that the defendant had the night before [illegible] while engaged in his official duties, and [illegible] language badgered him, saying, "the [illegible] of this city are played out," &c. George Everetts [illegible] up, and his experience in the Court, yesterday, probably convinced him that his opinion of the night before was correct. We mention this matter only because Judge Shattuck got the upper hand of law in this city, and that the Courts and law officers have, to use a slang phrase, "lost their grip." The action of the late grand jury in [illegible] off comical hard cases, and of the trial in the Circuit Court of [illegible] actions, have naturally assisted [illegible] people into just the mistake which was made by the party above mentioned.

[illegible]—The return of Capt. Kelly's company of [illegible], yesterday, caused a general change in the boat's [illegible] starting, in consequence of which quite a number [illegible] would be [illegible] got left at either end of the [illegible]. The Fredonia left Vancouver and arrived some two hours earlier than usual. The Senator left Oregon City very early and went back again before noon to bring down the mails. The Alert arrived here before twelve o'clock with the soldiers and then went—no it was the Senator that [illegible] having on board the Rinnals Troup—and Capt. Albert Sinclair was mean, the Troup came to sea—no, 'twas the Senator came down—we [illegible]. The steamer arrangement was as bad as the [illegible] about the departure of Mexico from the Napoleonian Empire, and nobody ever did or can have that out straight.

COUNTY COURT—SHATTUCK, JUDGE.—Monday Dec. 17th, [illegible] proceedings were had:

[illegible] Dagles Esqr. was admitted to practice law as a [illegible] and Counsellor.

[illegible] M. Starr vs. J F Talbot; action on promissory note; [illegible] for plaintiff, $150 00.

[illegible] W. Davis vs. John Bonser; action on promissory [illegible] for plaintiff, $726 80

[illegible] Joynt vs. Wm. M. King and Mary King his [illegible] action on account for goods, wares and merchandise; [illegible] against W. M. King for $250, dismissed as to Mary King.

[illegible]—The Victoria Telegraph says [illegible] to having the Vancouver Colony given [illegible] to the United States, but, "to be taken [illegible] a mouthful in time of war, is too humiliating [illegible] to contemplate." In behalf of the [illegible] we tender to this fearful editor the information that our Government, as a government, is not a [illegible] he may go on oiling his hair every [illegible] The least apprehension that he is preparing [illegible] and. We have not the slightest inclination [illegible] to get a fit of indigestion by swallowing [illegible] of Johnnies. You are safe.

[illegible] Capt. Kelly and his Co., "C," of the 8th [illegible] Cavalry, arrived back yesterday by the Alert, and [illegible] by their passage on the Fredonia Troup for Fort [illegible]. This [illegible] and left here on the 29th of November for Fort Klamath, but finding the season too far [illegible] to make the march without serious loss of property and great exposure of the men, Capt. Kelly obtained [illegible] to return. Capt. Sprague will, therefore, [illegible] at Fort Klamath, till relieved in the spring.

[illegible]'s COURT—HOFFMAN, JUDGE.—Edwin Stevens [illegible] was picked up Saturday night at the corner of Washington and Front, pleaded guilty, yesterday, to a charge of being drunk and lying on the sidewalk, and was fined $5 and costs.

Daniel Kelly, on a charge of disorderly conduct—disturbing the inmates of a China house, and using abusive [illegible] to an officer—was fined $10 and costs.

[illegible] PROPERTY.—The Senator yesterday morning [illegible] down 890 sacks wheat, 23 half barrels lard and tallow, 1 bale woolen goods, 23 boxes eggs, 3 gunny sacks, 34 bbls. beef, 3 cases woolen goods, 59 boxes apples, and 1 package. In the afternoon she brought down 1 case woolen goods, and a few sacks feed. The [illegible] no freight but the army baggage belonging to Capt. Kelly's company of soldiers.

[illegible]—The [illegible] of Washington Lodge No. 4, [illegible] A. F. & A. M., elected the following officers, on Monday evening last, for the ensuing year, W. H. [illegible], W. M., U. H. Hunday, S. W., Geo. W. Durin, J. W., Robert Stewart, Treas., John Eddings, Sec., Jos. [illegible], S. D., A. G. Tripp, J. D.; Geo. Weedon, [illegible].

[illegible] AN OLD FAVORITE HOME.—Richardson has a [illegible] at 9 A. M., to-day—valuable watches, jewelry, [illegible] name, fancy goods, the entire stock of Jacob Cohen, 105 Front street. Richardson's speeches on the occasion will be interesting and [illegible].

[illegible]—Willamette Lodge, No 2, F & A M, held their annual election of officers for the ensuing Masonic year, last evening, when the following persons were chosen: W Brown W. M., B. F Goodwin, S W; [illegible] J. W.; H. Seymour, Treasurer; S. Penoyer, Secretary; F. Mauritz Tyler [illegible].

[illegible]—The Gray from Astoria by the Pioneer, reports that the Pacific went to sea without detention, [illegible].

THANKS.—We are indebted to Capt. Erskine of the Fidelity for files of Victoria papers to the 14th, the day of sailing.

[illegible]—S. L. Thomas of East Portland has [illegible] as Notary Public for Multnomah [illegible].

[illegible]—The Fidelity will leave this port for Victoria on Wednesday, the 19th inst., at 5 o'clock P. M

[illegible] black pants, buy at Herman Bros on the [illegible] of Front street.

[illegible] requested by Messrs Corbitt & Mackay to state [illegible] reply to Messrs. McCraken, Merrill & Co a market report of Dec. 8th, that they have eastern imported steam paper which counts upwards of twenty sheets to the [illegible], and of every superior quality at that Grocers and [illegible] can satisfy themselves of the fact by asking at our wire house No. 47 Front street.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—WEIL BROS have a large and varied [illegible] of fine dress goods such as Merino [illegible] silk, [illegible], French and Irish poplins, etc—which they are selling off at cost, affording an excellent opportunity for the business of HOLIDAY PRESENTS They also offer, at cost, the choicest stock of custom made clothing and Gents' furnishing goods.

Mustang Liniment.
OVER A MILLION DOLLARS SAVED!
Gentlemen—"I had a negro man worth $1,200 who took cold from a bad hurt in the leg, and was useless for over a year. I had used everything I could hear of without benefit, until I tried the Mexican Mustang Liniment. It soon effected a permanent cure"
J. L. DOWNING
Montgomery, Ala., June 17, 1859

"I take pleasure in recommending the Mexican Mustang Liniment as a valuable and indispensable article for Sprains, Sores, Scratches or Galls, on Horses. Our man hays used it for Burns, Bruises, Sores, Rheumatism, &c, and all say it acts like magic. J W HEWLES,
Foreman American, Wells, Fargo's and Saunders's Express

"The sprain of my daughter's ankle, occasioned while skating last winter, was entirely cured in one week, after she commenced using your celebrated Mustang Liniment Gloucester, Mass., Aug 1, 1865. ED SMILEY"

It is an admitted fact that the Mexican Mustang Liniment performs more cures in shorter time, on man an beast, than any article ever discovered. Families, livery men and planters should always have it on hand Quick and sure it certainly is All genuine is wrapped in steel plate engravings, bearing U. S Stamp of DEMAS BARNES & Co over the top.
An effort has been made to counterfeit it with a cheap stone-plate label. Look closely!

This is just what Lyon's Katharion will do. It is pretty—it is cheap—durable. It is literally sold by the carload, and yet its almost incredible demand is daily increasing, until there is hardly a country store that does not keep it, or a family that does not use it.

Love and Age.

BY THOMAS LOVE PEACOCK.

I played with you 'mid cowslips blowing,
When I was six and you were four;
When garland weaving, flower-balls throwing,
Were pleasures soon to please no more.
Through groves and mead's, o'er grass and heather,
With little playmates, to and fro,
We wandered hand in hand together;
But that was sixty years ago.

You grew a lovely rosate maiden,
And still our early love was strong;
Still with no change our days were laden,
They glided joyously along;
And I did love you, very dearly—
How dearly, words want power to show;
I thought your heart was touched as nearly;
But that was fifty years ago.

Then other lovers came around you,
Your beauty grew from year to year,
And many a splendid circle found you
The center of its glittering sphere.
I saw you then, first vows forsaking,
On rank and wealth your hand bestow;
Oh, then I thought my heart was breaking—
But that was forty years ago.

And I wed on to wed another;
No cause she gave me to repine;
And when I heard you were a mother,
I did not wish the children mine.
My own young flock, in fair progression,
Made up a pleasant Christmas row;
My joy in them was past expression;
But that was thirty years ago.

You grew a matron, plump and comely,
You doted on full many a brood,
My earthly lot was far more homely;
But I, too, had my festal days.
No mercier eyes have ever glistened
Around the hearth-stone's wintry glow
Than when my youngest child was christened;
But that was twenty years ago.

Time passed. My eldest girl was married,
And I am now a grandsire gray;
One pet of four years old I've carried
Among the wild-flowered meads to play,
In sun old fields of childish pleasure—
Where now, as then, the cowslips blow,
She fills her basket's ample measure—
And that is not ten years ago.

But though first love's impassioned blindness
Has passed away in colder light,
I still have thought of you with kindness,
And shall do till our last good night.
The ever rolling silent hours
Will bring a time we shall not know,
When our young days of gathering flowers
Will be a hundred years ago.

NASBY.

A CABINET MEETING—LETTERS FROM DISTINGUISHED INDIVIDUALS.

POST OFFICE, CONFEDERATE X ROADS, }
(Which is in the State of Kentucky.) }
November 7, 1866.

I was called to Washington by our patron Saint, the President, to comfort his wounded sperit. There aint no disguisin the fact—the sperit of Andreo Johnson is wounded. He has endoored the slings and arrers uv more outrajus fortunes than any other man who has lived since the days uv Hamlick—more, indeed, than Hamlick endoored—twice over. Hamlick's father was pizened, and his mother married agin afore her mourain cloze was wore out, within no savin, prudent woman would do—but what was that to what Androp Johnson endoors every day? Nothin, no, nothin!

The Cabinet mestin to wich I was summoned was called for the purpose uv sheddin a tear or two over the clozeburn returns, and to diskiver a variety uv letters wich His Excellency had received within a few days. I may remark that the Cabinet had a gloomy and mildewed look.

The fust wux from Rev. Henry Ward Beecher. Beecher remarked that he had the highest possible respeck for the offis wunst held by the good Washington, the great Adams and the sainted Linkin. He quitted remarkin anything about Fessco and Buchanan, out ov regard for the feelins uv the present incumbent, wich, of he had red History correkt, was a ardent supporter uv the Administrashens uv both uv them men, wich he considered claims upon the pages uv American history, wich he cood wish mite be obliterated. But what he desired to say was that he had a higher regard for the good opinion of mankind in general than he had for the good opinion uv the accidental incumbent uv any offis, and as he had, in a hour uv temporary mental aberrashen, which insanity had worked evil unto him, he reksated, as a simple act ov justis, that the President should cause it to be known that he (Beecher) was not considered by the Administrashen as a supporter thereof.

"I do this," sed the writer, "to save the impression that I am in the confidence uv your Eggslency, wich is unfortunately abroad, hez seriously damaged my reputashen. Trooly yours, et cetery."

The readin uv this letter was followed by a minit uv profound silence, wich wux broken by the President.

"Let him pass," sed the great man who has the dispensin uv the Post Offices; "let him pass. But here is another," and he, burin into teers, read that."

It was from General Custar, bilt uv the yaller hair, wich hed some reputashen 'doorin the war as a cavalry commander. It was to the same effect. He hed, when he xpoged that the policy uv the President, wich he estemed as he must any man who held the exalted position, what okkepied by the good Washington, the great Jefferson and the sainted Linkin.

"The ongrateful dog doesn't respect me," sed Andrew Jeff's the offis I fill," and he burst into a fresh flood.

—when he xpoged the President's policy was sich as a soljer and patriot cood indorse, he hez dorsed it. But he disklimed that it led him, back foremost, into company with doorin the late war he hed ullus visited face foremost and on horseback, and therefore, to save his reputashun, he must beg that the President wood give it out, that he (General Custar) was not now nor never hed been a supporter uv his policy, and obligo

Yours, troely, as before.

I was too hart-broken at this time to make eny reply, and Cowan and Doolittle wux in the same fix. The Kentucky one was given to Custar to keep him in pusishen hed he promised to be a Democratic Captin, who wux led by a company in the first Bull Run fight, and who threw up in disgust the next day, not likin the manner in wich the war was bein conducted, but now the Kentucky wux gone and Custar too, and wat wux worse, there was no sich thing to be had uv as distinkshun him. The entire company vpointed in mingling their teers.

The next letter was read by Seward as it was addressed to him. It wux from Raymond. He opened with the remark that for the Presidential office he hed the highest respeck. Aside from the considerashun that it hed been wunst occupied by the good Washington, the great Adams and the sainted Linkin, the President mite be considered the father of his country, bein as large a number of helpless children to provide for, and he hed a instinktive respeck for the dispenser of anything. He was diffident for him, being a quiet and simple minded man, not to adhere to the President but—

"Good heavens!" shrieked Johnson, "that little fox aint a going to speak of his reputashen?"

"Dooty requires the readin uv the entire document, painful to my feelins as it may be," said Seward. "He concloods thusly:"

I am forced to ask you as one enjoyin confidenshel relations with Him who occupies the Presidenshal chair, to hev it given out that I stand in opposition to him. A doo regard for my reputashen impels me to this course.

I remain, Yoors. Truly.

There was two or three more. General Cary uv Ohio, requested the President to remove him from his collectorship, ez the holdin uv it wux injooring his reputashen; a editor out west who was sedooced into takin a post office begged to hev it taken off his hands, that he might save his christashen before it wux everlastingly too late; and finally we come to wun the seal of which wux a coat of arms, bull dog rampant, bowie knife couchant, supported by trottin horses, on field uv green cloth. It wux from Hon. John Morrissey, who had jest been elected to Congress from New York.

Mr. Morrissey remarked that, ez one uv the pillars uv the Democrisy, he felt he had a rite to speek. He wished it to be understood that he washed his hands uv any connekshun with Johnson or his party. He had seed a lite, in States where the Democrisy, uv which he was a piller, hed tied themselves to Johnson, they had gone down to a premetoor grave. Respeck for the high offis restrained him from sayin that the Democrisy coodent carry anob a cussid load, but he wood say that the result uv the election in New York, where they dependid wholly on muscle and nigger, wich is the rent Democratic capital, and succeeded, while where the Democrisy was loaded down with the Johnsonianism they failed, satisfied him that the President wux a hinkubus. He red this with all doo respeck for the offis. Mr. Morrissey further remarked that he hed also personal reasons for making this request. He commenced in a humble position, and bed filled the public eye long enough to satisfy his modist ambishen—he hed walloped Sullivan and Heenan—he hed owned the fastest horses and won more money in fare than any man in Amerika. His ambishon was satisfied so fur ez he wux concerned, but he hoped to leave behind him for his infent son (wich was only twelve years uv age and wich hed a'development of intellekt and muscle remarkable for one so tender, hevin already walloped every boy in skool to wich he wux a goin) he desired to leave that son a honorable name. It hed bin given out that he was a supporter uv the individooal who okkepied the Presidenshal offis, and it wux injoorin him. He wished that stigma removed—a regard for his reputashen forced him to insist upon it.

And the epistle wux duly signed,

There was a silence in the Cabinet. This last stroke intensified the gloom which had settled onto the Government, and as I turned my tear-dewed eyes I saw the great drop a course in down the cheeks uv every one present. Seward retired without saying anything about ninety days, and one by one they all departed.

It wux a soleman time. There was other letters yet to be read, but no one had the heart to open 'em. I made a move in this direckshun, but Andrew prevented me. "I'm sick," murmured he in a husky voice, "help me to bed." I saw the great man bury his intellectool head beneath the snowy kiverin uv his onesey couch, all but the nose, which in him is the thermometer of the sole, and which accordingly glowed, not with the yoosual brilliant hue, but with a dull, dead and ghastly bloo. Noticin the convulsive heavins uv the kivers which betrayed the agitashun uv the breast beneath, I whispered in his ear ez I handed him his nite drink uv rye whisky flavored with bourbon, that he hed one hold, ex-Delaware hed sustained him. A flush uv satisfaction passed over his nose, but it subsided in an instant. "Troo," gasped he, "it's ourn now, but before the next election a couple ur them Massachoosits Abolishnists will buy the cussid State and re-people it to soit 'em," and he gave a convulsive gasp and sunk into a troubled slumber.

It wux a totebin occasion.

YANKEES IN AUSTRALIA.—A correspondent, writing from Melbourne to the London Times, says the Yankee stage driver is one of the institutions of the country, and gives the following description of one of the American stages and drivers found in Australia:

"A long, leather covered, red-painted, four-wheeled affair, in three compartments, and open at the sides, having something of the appearance of three watering-place 'flies' stuck together, ensionaly uniting lightness and strength, is any one of Cobb's line of American coaches running from Melbourne to Beckworth (near the borders of New South Wales), and from many of the up-country railway stations, to districts which are distant from the line. This formidable structure, for long stages and bad roads, is usually drawn by six exceedingly well-bred horses. The driver, a young Yankee from Vermont, and boarded like the pard, is on the box, looking as responsible as the driver of a coach-and-six ought to look, and eyeing his team with complacency. 'All aboard,' cries the driver to all parties concerned, as full notice that he's ready to be off, for Cobb, like time and tide, waits for no man. 'All aboard!' rejoyed the English portion of the 'insides.' 'Let 'em go,' says Vermont, as he quietly turns a lump of 'Cavendish' in his cheek and the grooms jump aside. The near-wheeler opens the proceedings by standing on his hind legs almost as straight as a man, but the harness is strong and he is only one of six. Two or three others do a little plunging on their own private account. 'Ah, ya!' shouts Vermont. 'Hi! he! go then! Aberdeen! Sherman, Pompey!' The sound of their names from his authoritative mouth seems to call them to their duty, and they tear off at full speed. They are not many yards from the railway station when they are in the midst of wash-dirt and diggings. Here, we are in a clump of trees; there, thundering through a deep and narrow gully. One while the deep pits of the miners are within a yard or two of us on either side; another time we are tearing away at the rate of sixteen miles an hour whenever we come to a bit of tolerably level ground. But rough or smooth, on good metalled road or in mud up to the axle, our driver is always master of the situation, and we refuse to think that an accident is among the possibilities of the journey. These American drivers are quiet and self-possessed when on English stage-coachman—assuming any of the species are extant—would give up the whole concern as lost."

Lions.

Lions appear to be monogamous. The lioness carries her young five months, and has two or three at a birth. According to Jules Gerard, the cubs begin to attack animals, as sheep and goats, that array-in-their neighborhood, as early as from eight to twelve months old. About two years old they are able to strangle a horse or camel, and from this time until maturity (about eight years) the adult, they are truly ruinous neighbors. They kill not only to obtain food, but apparently to learn to kill. The age to which lions attain appears doubtful; Pompey, the lion in the Old Tower Menagerie, reached his seventieth year; and fifty years has been sometimes given as the ordinary limit reached by them; but this, most likely, is over the mark. Dr. Livingstone has observed that they appear to suffer from loss of teeth as they advance in years.

Lions appear to have been the objects of special worship at Leontopolis in ancient Egypt; and in one of the Egyptian bas reliefs, to which Dr. G. Wilkinson assigns an antiquity of three thousand years, some Egyptians are represented hunting with lance in hand, in the style chetahs are used to this day in the Deccan. If not one of the animals universally regarded as sacred in ancient Egypt, the lion still seems to have been a favorite, for in every possible form of ornament we find the head and claws reproduced in water-spouts, chair-legs and sword-handles. M. Gerard has remarked that in North Africa (besides a large destruction of human life), the damage done by carrying off and killing cattle cannot be estimated at a lower figure than three hundred pounds per annum for each lion. Lions appear to attack game by seizing the flank near the hind leg, or the throat below the jaw—points which instinct seems quickly to teach the cubs of all kinds to assail, when in pursuit of the larger animals. The tales of lions never devouring game save when killed by themselves, are unfounded.

A point where imagination has wrought wonders is in the matter of the lion's voice. This fancy has also been demolished by Dr. Livingstone. "To talk of the majestic voice of the lion," he writes; "is merely so much majestic twaddle. I have never found any one who could fairly distinguish between the roar of the lion and that of the ostrich, although the former appears to proceed more from the chest. To this day," he adds, "I am unable to distinguish one from the other, except by knowing that the former roars by night, and the latter by day only."

Naturalists have very generally considered the Asiatic lion as a distinct species from the African, but this appears by no means well decided. There are several varieties of the African lion. The Arabs in North Africa distinguish three—the yellow, the gray and the black, and M. Gerard states that while individuals of the two former varieties have been known to roam over immense tracks of country, specimens of the black-maned lion have been found to inhabit one spot for over thirty years. Mr. Gordon Cumming, on the other hand, whose opportunities of observing these animals were only second to those of Jules Gerard, states that he is satisfied that the two varieties of South African lion, the yellow and the black, are one and the same species at different ages; that their manes invariably become darker as they increase in years, and that the thickness of the coat, and the abundance of the mane, appear to depend on the nature of the cover frequented by the animals, being always greatest where there is least shelter.—Chambers Journal.

The Biddarford Journal tells a hard story about a drunken man in Saco, who dropped from his mouth a piece of cracker he was eating, when a little dog immediately picked it up and ate it, and in less than an hour swelled up and died! Powerful "cotgut," that, but it seems that, as in the case recorded by Goldsmith—

"The rum recovered from the bite,
The dog it was that died."

SHARE.—An Irish boy, trying hard to get a place, denied that he was Irish. "I don't know what you mean by not being an Irishman," said the gentleman who was about to hire him; "but this I do know, that you were born in Ireland." "Och! your honor, if that's all, small blame that. Suppose your old cat had kittens in the oven, would they be loaves of bread?"

The boy got a place.

IMPORTANCE OF HAVING 'DAVIS' PAIN KILLER ALWAYS ON HAND.

Wonderful Cure of the Rev. D. L. Brayton, Missionary to India, who was stung by a Scorpion.

Extract from his letter, published in the Baptist Missionary Magazine:

"For the first time since I have been in India, I have been stung by a scorpion. I went out this morning to my exercises, as usual, at early dawn; and having occasion to remove an old log, on taking off the cover I put my hand on a scorpion, which immediately resented the insult by thrusting its sting into the palm of my hand. The instantaneous and severe pain which darted through the system is quite incredible; what an awful virulent pain their sting must contain. I flew to my bottle of DAVIS' PAIN KILLER, and found it to be true to its name; after a few moments' relief, I saturated a small piece of sponge, bathed it on my hand, and went about by exercise, feeling no more particular inconvenience."

to call at his office and be at once restored. Surgical operations SKILFULLY performed on the EYES for film, cataract, strabismus or cross eyes.

Below are some of the many testimonials:

This is to certify that I, John R. Jodwan, was blind for over nine years, and I tried all means of a cure, and had many doctors, and all of no effect, and I spent all the means I had. Finally, I had to become a county charge, and when I was taken to Dr. G. W. Brown, and stated my case to him, and misfortune, he at once commenced to treat my eyes, and now I am well, and recommend all those that are suffering with disease of the eyes to call on Dr. G. W. Brown. The reason why I do this is to let suffering humanity know where they can be cured. J. R. JODWAN.

This is to certify that my daughter was almost blind for over seven years, and was declared by other physicians without obtaining any relief, when finally I took her to Dr. G. W. Brown, who examined her case, and at once began to give her treatment, and her sight has been entirely restored. I do this to let those who are suffering with diseases of the eyes know where they can obtain a cure. It has been three years since her eyes were cured, and they are yet sound.

THOMAS LIVINGSTON.
Deer Creek Precinct, Douglas county, Oregon.
SALEM, July 21, 1866.

This is to certify that I was blind for over four months, and almost blind for one year and a half; I tried several eye doctors but received no benefit; I had almost given my case up as hopeless when fortunately I heard of Dr. G. W. Brown, now of Salem. I was induced to try him; he performed a surgical operation on my eyes, and gave me treatment. I soon began to recover, and in a short time I was perfectly cured. I do this in justice to one who rescued me from a fate worse than death, and also for the benefit of those who are laboring under similar afflictions that they may know where they can get relief. It is now about eight months since my eyes were cured and they still remain good. I can see to read the finest print without difficulty, and my eyes can bear the strongest light without pain.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE PAYMENT OF BOUNTIES, UNDER THE ACT TO EQUALIZE BOUNTIES, APPROVED JULY 28, 1866.

WAR DEPARTMENT, ADJUTANT GENERAL'S OFFICE,
WASHINGTON, September 16, 1866.

1. All applications shall be filed within the period of six months, from the 1st day of October, 1866, and before any payments are made, shall be classified by regiments, battalions, or other separate organizations, and no application filed after that period shall be settled until after the former shall have been paid.

2. No application shall be entertained unless accompanied by the original discharge of the soldier and the affidavit required by the fourteenth section of the Act, and the further affidavit that he has not received, nor is he entitled to receive from the United States, under any laws or regulations prior to the Act of July 28, 1866, more than $100 bounty for any and all military service rendered by him during the late rebellion, over and above the amount therein claimed.

3. All applications for the additional bounty authorized by this Act from surviving soldiers shall be in the form hereinafter prescribed, and the evidence of identity shall be the same as is now required, and applications from the heirs of deceased soldiers shall be in the form now required by the Treasury Department.

4. As soon as the examination of the claims of any regiment, or other independent organization, shall have been properly acted upon the Paymaster General shall take the necessary steps for their prompt payment.

5. A register shall be kept in the Paymaster General's office, and also in the office of the Second Auditor, of all claims presented under the law, in which the claimants will be classified by regiments, etc. If the claims be allowed, the amount of bounty paid to each will be noted, and if rejected the cause of rejection will be distinctly stated.

6. In the applications for bounty, as required by the third of these rules, the affidavit shall state each and every period of service rendered by the claimant, and also that he never served otherwise than as herein stated.

7. Organizations irregularly in the service of the United States, or called out for special purposes, as State militia, Home Guards, etc., and not included in the general bounty laws, are not included within the meaning of the Act.

8. Soldiers enlisted for "three years or during the war," who were discharged by reason of the termination of the war, shall be considered as having served out the period of their enlistment, and are entitled to bounty under this Act.

9. The minority of heirs, claimants for bounty under this Act, must be proven to have existed at the date of its passage. Letters shall not be granted to parties to whom they may be entitled as heirs, unless the father has abandoned the support of his family, in which case it shall be paid to the mother. Non-residence in the United States shall not be a bar to the claim of heirs, who would otherwise legally inherit.

The provisions of the Act exclude from its benefits the following classes:

1. Those who, after serving the full period of their enlistment, were dishonorably discharged at its expiration.

2. Those discharged during enlistment by way of favor or punishment.

3. Those discharged on account of disability contracted in the service, but not occasioned by wounds received "in the line of duty," who shall not have previously served two or three years respectively at the time of discharge.

4. Those discharged on account of disability existing at the time of their enlistment.

5. The heirs of those who have died since their discharge of wounds or disease not contracted in the service and in the line of duty.

6. The surviving soldiers and heirs of deceased soldiers who, under previous laws, have received or are entitled to receive a bounty of more than $100 from the United States.

7. The surviving soldiers, as well as the heirs of deceased soldiers, when such soldiers have bartered, sold, assigned, loaned, transferred, exchanged or given away their final discharge papers, or any interest in the bounty provided by this or any other Act of Congress.

8. The Act of the 28th of July, 1866, creates no right of inheritance beyond those vested by the laws under which these heirs received or were entitled to receive the original bounty, and debars certain classes, brothers and sisters of heirs that were entitled to receive the original bounty, from any claim for the additional bounty provided by this Act.
